Charter class Sarawakias which are required to be fulfilled by each Malaysian citizen and expatriate, has been abolished following the granting of the Independence by the British in 1957. This was done to provide equal status for the indigenous or native Malaysians. The Income Tax Act 1961 and the Companies Act 1965 were subsequently changed in 1972 to provide for a homogeneous tax system throughout Malaysia, although many class preferences and systems still existed in the individual states. The National Registration Act 1965 also established the National Registration Department (NRD) to provide a national identification system, which was introduced in 1974.
